

Kandy, Sri Lanka, 2006

Problems identified by Automobile Nucleus members

1. Would like to learn how to repair new vehicles
2. How to repair electronic vehicle technology
3. Knowledge about EFI systems
4. knowledge about GDI systems
5. Knowledge about diesel electronic pumps knowledge about engine analysis
6. Auto gear technology
7. Computer electronic engineering
8. Sensor technology
9. Using new technology for painting
10. Management knowledge
11. Inability to win the confidence of customers
12. Inability to identify requirements of clients
13. How to develop a heat room?
14. Workshop layout – how to do it properly
15. Inability to identify “real” spare parts
16. A lot of time spent on obtaining spare parts
17. Modern equipment is too expensive
18. Not having the proper tools
19. Training for workers is difficult to get
20. Lack of skilled workers
21. Lack of equipment suitable for repairing modern vehicles
22. Lack of knowledge about equipment related to EFI, GDI and diesel electronic repairs
23. Customers do not maintain their vehicles properly